The Foxfield course was measured on 9/30/24 in the rain.

Compaction: 82

Moisture: 10

It is encouraging to note that since last Monday when we first measured the course, it has received 8 + inches of rain and the compaction level only dropped by 6 points. We are hopeful that by Sunday, if it will stop raining today, the course going will improve. We will measure again Thursday afternoon in order to get a trend line. The course turf is thick, and if possible, we will tip it off prior to race day between 6 1/2 & 7 inches. The forecast for Sunday is full sun and 75 degrees.
